Wow! She's really not a good photographer.

I just saw her photography, i guess that's what she does for a living.. but it appears that her Myspace page was taken down, I can only imagine why, since she now must be the most hated woman in Florida!

Hopefully all the galleries will take down her work.

Frankly this lady makes me sick to my stomach. She used to work at the same business as I do. She lived very close to work and even walked Ella over to meet us one day on her lunch break. I don't know if anyone knows what else she had done to this poor, sweet dog. Back in the fall, she was let go by our employer. Thinking she was a nice girl, I tried to keep in touch with her by Myspace. Although we never talked after she left I did occasionally check her blogs. I read on her Myspace page that she tied the dog to her front door by its leash because it was barking. Due to this STUPID action, the leash got rapped around Ella's leg and caused a lot of damage. The dog had to have its leg removed because of it. I regret not turning her into authorities then and am wondering what story she gave the vet for the accident. I would think if the vet knew of these actions they would have notified someone as well.

As a "bleeding heart, tree-hugging liberal", I don't think this woman should be given a break. I wish her the very worst for what she did. There is no excuse for what she did to that dog. Whatever else was going on in her life, she could at the very least, taken the dog to an animal shelter.

I'll bet whatever judge she appears before will give her nothing more than a $250.00 fine - and "time served." After all, the law states that dogs are "property." I hope she spends her afterlife getting peed upon by all abused dogs.

Now I'm more * than ever, if that's possible. Yet, hindsight is always 20/20. So I sincerely hope all of you posting here don't let Ella's story slip away into an "out of sight, out of mind" black hole that - unfortunately - usually happens with most animal abuse cases. For unless we keep Ella upfront and personal - as I think she's become to all of us by now - Abrams will get away with this. Although it's far too late for Ella, we can alleviate "after-the-fact" her horrible suffering by ensuring her abuser pays an extremely hefty price. Ella can't do it; Ella probably wouldn't do it as she was an "unconditionally loving" dog. But we can.....keep this site going!!!!
